New business networking group forms at Peckforton Castle

17 November 2010, Tarporley, Cheshire, UK – A new business networking group, Passionate About Business, which meets at leading Cheshire hotel Peckforton Castle on the second Monday of each month from 18.00, is inviting businesses from across the region to join the group and build their business contacts.

Hosted by Peckforton Castle sales and marketing director Jessica Johnson, Passionate About Business is a not for profit venture designed to help local businesses grow via qualified referrals shared in a supportive environment.

Jessica explains: "We've set up Passionate About Business with some local businesses and our aim is clear; we provide a very welcoming and relaxed business networking environment where people from across the region can meet, promote their businesses to each other and seek quality referrals. Everyone is welcome to come and try us out."

Guests can attend three meetings before signing up for annual membership, which includes refreshments at each meeting, plus two gourmet dinner nights each year at Peckforton Castle.

Jessica adds: "Most of the meeting is aimed at free networking to give members the opportunity to build strong working relationships. It's at a convenient time of 6pm, which means people can come straight from work, and it's just once a month. Peckforton Castle is a great venue to come for networking and the refreshments are divine too! At each meeting members present their business opportunity to the group and there are also three short presentations from members. The group will suit small and large business.”

The next Passionate About Business networking event will take place at Peckforton Castle on Monday 13 December 2010 from 6pm in the Hexagonal Room.
